PARAGRAPHEM	For example, we may ask a physicist or chemist: "How old are the atoms that form the material from which the universe is built?"	T-SLOT	TEXTGRAMMATIK
	Only half a century ago such a question would not have made much sense.	D-SLOT
	However, when the existence of natural radio-active elements was recognized, the situation became quite different. It became evident that if the radio-active elements had been formed too far back in time, they would now have decayed completely and disappeared.	A-SLOT
	Thus the observed relative abundance of various radio-active elements may give us some clue as to the time of their origin.	C-SLOT
